

The Potential and Role of an Extension Service in the Provision of Sustainable Farming Practices in Gressier- Learning Assessment

Multiple Choice

1. What are the main factors that hindered agricultural productivity and quality of local farming in Haiti?
 - a. The dominance of small-scale subsistence farms
 - b. Farmers did not take advantage of the extension services
 - c. The lack of interest of farmers
 - d. The inability to get access to rural credits market despite their availability
2. What were the findings from the interviews and workshops conducted at Christianville and Gressier?
 - a. The farmers have been found to be working as a group in rural areas
 - b. Agriculture is still primitive, small scaled and for subsistence
 - c. There is provision of an extension service to help and empower these farmers
 - d. The farmers have access to credit facilities
3. What is the potential role of the CVET school at the Christianville foundation?
 - a. Provision of credit facilities to the farming community
 - b. Providing agricultural inputs to the farmers
 - c. Provision of an extension service for the surrounding community in Gressier
 - d. Provision of agricultural machinery for land preparation to the farmer
4. The country faced major events during the past decades. Which of these correspond to these events?
 - a. A decrease in the price of fertilizer
 - b. A booming agricultural sector
 - c. Struck by earthquakes and strong storms
 - d. The farmers getting access to micro-credits
5. How do you define the rural areas in Haiti?
 - a. Very well connected with the developments across the country
 - b. Farmers are well educated
 - c. The villages are food secured
 - d. The farmers are poor and disconnected with the government agricultural programs

The Potential and Role of an Extension Service in the Provision of Sustainable Farming Practices in Gressier- Learning Assessment KEY

Multiple Choice

1. What is the main factor that hindered agricultural productivity and quality of local farming in Haiti?
 - a. The dominance of small-scale subsistence farms.
 - b. Farmers did not take advantage of the extension services.
 - c. The lack of interest of farmers.
 - d. The inability to get access to rural credits market despite their availability.
2. What were the findings from the interviews and workshop conducted at Christianville and Gressier?
 - a. The farmers have been found to be working as a group in rural areas.
 - b. Agriculture is still primitive, small scaled and for subsistence.
 - c. There is provision of an extension service to help and empower these farmers.
 - d. The farmers have access to credit facilities.
3. What is the potential role of the CVET school at the Christianville foundation?
 - a. Provision of credit facilities to the farming community.
 - b. Providing agricultural inputs to the farmers.
 - c. Provision of an extension service for the surrounding community in Gressier.
 - d. Provision of agricultural machinery for land preparation to the farmers.
4. The country faced major events during the past decades. Which of these correspond to these events?
 - a. A decrease in the price of fertilizer.
 - b. A booming agricultural sector.
 - c. Struck by earthquakes and strong storms.
 - d. The farmers getting access to micro credits.
5. How do you define the rural areas in Haiti?
 - a. Very well connected with the developments across the country.
 - b. Farmers are well educated.
 - c. The villages are food secured.
 - d. The farmers are poor and disconnected with the government agricultural programs.

Open-Ended

1. What are the roles of an extension service in supporting farmers?

Answers will vary

An agricultural extension service directly works with farmers related to agriculture. Their primary role is to assist these groups to make better decisions to increase agricultural production through the provision of technical advice adapted to the local conditions. They have also the role to transfer new technology from researchers to the farming community.

2. How can the establishment of an agricultural cooperative improve the delivery of an extension service?

Answers will vary

Farmers with common interest can get better organized for receiving helps and support from extension services, looking for solutions for their challenges and constraints they encounter in their daily activities. This consolidates the group and helps the extension officer in organizing and delivering effective management practices for uplifting the standard of living of the community. Through collective actions of the farmers many constraints and challenges can be resolved in an efficient manner.